Good morning Brian and Michael,

One of the calls I had yesterday was with Mark Green at Volanteus - below. Mark was referred to me and is good guy; he/Volanteus fly a lot of stars from West Coast California to UK & Europe.

I appreciate Brian has a busy day today but Michael; might you be able to give Mark a call today at some point? He and I discussed 100hrs at $12.5k. VJ and Qatar Aviation are their biggest providers...

Mark has no idea of my move to FCA, otherwise I would dive in and close this!

Let me know what might suit Michael and I will connect you all now on a separate email.

Best,

Vince.

Hi there Vincent, this is really interesting and chatting it through with the guys here, we could well use a good number of those hours.

Wondered if your friend would give me a call to chat through a few things about the process and alike.

Many thanks

Mark

Subject: VistaJet hours

Hi Mark,

Great to speak with you and I hope all is well.

As explained, I currently work for Air Partner and we live here in Fort Lauderdale Florida. The offer below is through a client and friend of mine that has purchased these VJ hours from a client of his own through his company Mente Group. Along with the attached, below is a summary (copy & paste from Mente Groups CFO Michael Rodgers).

1. Purchased these hours through an existing client – so, we directly own these hours on VistaJet, and have permission to re-market

- We're marketing this through our Insight Card, ideally in blocks of 100 hours or more (though we can sell blocks in lower numbers).
- User has access to Global 5000/6000 on VistaJet aircraft; we manage all aspects of the trip.

1. We're marketing the hours at $12,500 / hour + fuel surcharge + incidentals.

- Fuel surcharge is assigned by VistaJet.
- As you know, the $12,500 is an attractive rate and below market.

1. We would consider, in the right situation, private-labeling a card for another broker

I hope this is a valuable initial insight and I look forward to fixing a time for another call to discuss in more detail.

Best regards,

Vincent.
